Morland is one of the UK's leading producers of wood-based decorative panels. These can be as simple as a flooring board through to decorated both sides furniture boards.

Our expertise on the combination of board and covering allows us to tailor cost effective products. We laminate panels for a broad spectrum of UK and European customers. We ensure that the right board is used for the decoration chosen and the final application. This selection considers factors such as the number of plies needed for screw retention through to impact resistance.

We can be flexible on minimum order quantities, and can work on short lead times where materials are available.
