

joinery services

Morland's investment in machining and processing technology means we can produce a diverse range of finished joinery products.

Our aim is to deliver "flat pack fit out". All you have to do is slot the items together and secure the fix.

We will machine, drill, edge band and fit connectors to enable the assembly of the finished item. We can supply bar coded labels or work to bespoke packaging and labelling systems to enable accurate recording of goods.

Our range includes case goods, draw boxes, robe systems, door sets and furniture components. These are supplied to furniture manufacturers, construction companies, boat builders and the recreational vehicle and holiday home industries.

Our capability is flexible enough to take on special projects to help meet one off deadlines. We operate flexible shift working patterns and are able to flex our output with short notice.

However, we also have the management disciplines to support lean manufacturing by providing a true Just In Time delivery service of batch specific materials to rolling production line schedules. Delivering in closed packaging loops with well designed protection ensuring a defect free, on time delivery.

By the investment that has been made in precision joinery equipment Morland offer finishes that are very hard to achieve on site. For example Morland uses mechanical dovetail fittings to support any mitred joints. These fittings push fit into the mortice holes tightening the joint. This attention to detail and factory finish is what underwrites our joinery services.

We also offer the benefit of no waste on site. This ensures no last minute panics and no costly waste disposal. Our cut to length service utilises an optimising saw maximising yield whatever the length spec. Let us segregate and dispose of waste and keep manufacturing off site.
